Headquarters Penobscot River Salmon

A great many ask us the question: Why do we not handle ST. JOHN RIVER SALMON? Our answer is simple. In the first place that they are not fit to ship, being soft and flabby when cut, the result of being kept too long before shipment, and in the second place, that we make a specialty of Penobscot River Salmon. During the season our shipments are double those of any other concern in the city, which we owe to the confidence the public have in us of getting a Penobscot fish, and no other. And we know whereof we speak when we say: There is not one person in this city, either in the meat or fish business, no matter how long they have been in the same, can tell a St. John from a Penobscot salmon when lying side by side, as far as looks is concerned. To avoid this mixing up the Salmon unintentionally, and to give our customers the genuine article, is why we handle no other, and are sure of no mistakes, and feel confident when it reaches its destination, it will have that FIRMNESS and FRESHNESS which you won't find in the St. John. Among our numerous shipments last season, was one to ex-President Cleveland, and we have his testimonial as to the condition in which it arrived. Come if you are going to send a Salmon away to a friend, and get a Penobscot River, and have no doubts as to the same.

THE FLOOD'S RAVAGES.

The Lapse of Time Shows no Diminution in the Estimates of Losses.

The Numbers Burned Can Never be More Than Approximated.

Reports Received Up to Tuesday Afternoon.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 4. Seventy-five acres of debris accumulated by the Pennsylvania railroad bridge over the Conemaugh will be dynamited to-day so as to disintegrate the mass, start the logs down river, catch the bodies which will be thus dislodged and inter them as rapidly as possible. Four days have elapsed since the angel of death swept down through the valley of the Conemaugh, but no ray of sunshine has yet lightened the scene of horror at Johnstown bridge. The sky is still overcast with heavy clouds, and the sun rests behind a menacing pall as though reluctant to view the handiwork of the elements. For thirty-six hours without intermission fire engines have played upon the smoking ruins above the bridge, but the at frequent intervals in this floating field of ruins seem to defy the subduing force of the water.

Nearly 2,000 men are employed in different parts of the valley clearing up the ruins and prosecuting the search for the undiscovered dead. Their investigations are not without frightful results, for the bodies of dead and charred victims of flood and fire are discovered with undiminished frequency.

It becomes hourly more and more apparent that not a single vestige will ever be recognized of hundreds that were roasted in the flames above the bridge. So difficult is it at times to determine whether the remains are those of human beings that it is apparent that hundreds must be fairly burned to ashes, thus the number that found their last resting place beneath these ruins can at best

Never be More than Approximated.

Moxham, the iron manufacturer, is Mayor pro tem. of Johnstown to-day. Although he has been for days without sleep he still sticks nobly to his task. Hundreds of others like him have not closed their eyes in sleep since they awoke on Friday morning, and are, in consequence, a hollow-eyed, pitiful looking lot. Men and horses are greatly needed to-day. Bodies have been recovered in Johnstown to-day that have been robbed by ghouls that flock to the scene.

The Huns attacked a supply wagon between Morrellville and Cambria city today. The drivers of the wagon repulsed them, but they again returned and a second fight ensued. After a lively scramble the Huns were again driven away. After that the drivers and guards of the supply wagons were permitted to go armed.

Registers are being opened and all survivors are requested to register their names, in order to give information as to their safety to inquiring friends.

The Chamber of Commerce

has made arrangements with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to transfer passengers from Johnstown to Pittsburg, free of charge. The trains are packed so full that it was impossible to obtain standing room on the platform of the one which left last night. The passengers were mostly children and women. The faces at the windows expressed nothing but relief as the train drew out from the ill-fated city.

The Tariff Club's relief train from Pittsburg lay on the Baltimore and Ohio track to-day and did more good than any other that has yet arrived.

9 A. M.—Delay is no longer possible. The decomposed corpses will inevitably breed pestilence if they are longer exposed to the air. At the first break of dawn this morning orders were issued to push the preparations for a gigantic burial with all possible speed. Where there is no reasonable hope for identification, the Bodies will be Buried at Once.

It is probable that by this evening there will be at least 3,000 new graves in the valley, many of which will be unmarked for all time.

9.30 A. M. Nearly 2,000 bodies have already been recovered and as the work of examining the wreckage progresses, the conviction grows that the magnitude of the calamity has not yet been approximated. The debris wedged against the big Pennsylvania railroad stone bridge is still burning and the efforts of the firemen to quench or stay the progress of the flames are futile. The mass which undoubtedly forms the funeral pyre for thousands of victims who lie beneath it, is still burning and likely to burn for weeks to come.

At 11 o'clock the first relief train bearing thousands of provisions for the sufferers and ...

Two Thousand Coffins for the Dead

passed over Johnstown bridge and across the improvised trestle and track to Johnstown depot. For the first time railroad communication is re-established between the stricken city and the outside world.

The recommendation of the physicians yesterday that the bodies not buried be allowed to be cremated in the interest of the public health and which caused such a storm of indignation among the surviving populace is received with more calmness to-day and there is a growing sentiment that it is after all the best solution of the problem. Weeks and perhaps months will be required to remove the stupendous mass by artificial means and in the meantime the rotting, putrefying remains of poor humanity buried therein would be dealing pollution and death to all the surrounding country. At Johnstown proper the rescuers continue ... [illegible]

Bodies by the Hundreds.

The special train of the Masonic Relief ... from Pittsburg arrived early this morning and those in charge ... speaking of what they brought ... would do the most good ... [illegible] sight to see two or three coffins going along one after the other, followed by a number of mourners in the same family. It is impossible to secure wagons of any kind; consequently all the funeral processions are on foot.

Mr. Gaffney's Sad Duty.

William Gaffney, an insurance agent of this place, had a very pitiful duty to perform this morning. He lost fourteen relatives, all told, and among them were wife and children. To make his calamity complete he was obliged to perform the awful duty of digging his wife and children's graves, as well as those of his other relatives and burying them.

At the request of the sheriff Adjutant General Hastings to-day ordered out the Fourteenth regiment of Pittsburg militia not on account of any trouble but to guard against anything that might happen. The regiment will be stationed in Johnstown proper to guard the buildings from thieves.

It is Now Definitely Settled that at least twenty to forty people were lost on the two sections of the day express that left Pittsburg at 8 A. M. Friday and the Johnstown accommodation, that was about to leave Johnstown that afternoon.

3 P. M.—Three hundred more bodies have just been found opposite Nineveh. This makes seven hundred bodies found at that point.

HELP FOR THE SUFFERERS.

Measures for Relief by the Government.

WASHINGTON, June 4. Secretary Proctor was at the White House this morning in conference with the President in regard to measures for the relief of the Johnstown sufferers. While they were together a telegram was received from Governor Beaver at Harrisburg, asking if the Government could furnish pontoons for the immediate construction of temporary bridges across the Conemaugh river. The President had a general conversation over the wire with Governor Beaver in regard to the situation and learned that at present the people are more in need of clothing and food than of money. In accordance with the request for pontoons, Secretary Proctor this morning telegraphed to the officers in command at West Point and Willet's Point to arrange at once to meet the want, saying that means of transportation to Johnstown would be furnished by the Baltimore & Ohio and other railroads. Major Gen. Schofield is also considering the means of supplying rations and other assistance.

Massachusetts Votes $30,000.

BOSTON, June 4. The House to-day amended the bill of yesterday to appropriate $10,000 for the Pennsylvania sufferers by increasing the amount to $30,000. The Senate has passed the resolution appropriating $30,000 for the Pennsylvania sufferers.

Ohio's Generosity.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 4. Over $16,000 was subscribed for the Johnstown sufferers yesterday. Two carloads of provisions and clothing are ready for shipment. Twenty-one carloads of lumber will go forward as soon as it can be received at Johnstown.

New York's Liberality.

NEW YORK, June 4. Up to noon to-day subscriptions to relief fund for sufferers by flood amounted to nearly $180,000 in this city alone.

Funds from Americans in England.

LONDON, May 4. Americans in England are engaged in collecting money for the benefit of the sufferers by the Johnstown floods. Already a considerable sum has been raised.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The Auburn school children contributed 2,060 bouquets to decorate the soldiers' graves last year and 3,127 this year. The bouquets this year were larger and composed of choicer flowers than ever before.

Orren Eaton, one of the bell boys at the DeWitt house, Lewiston, has constructed a model locomotive engine which is the object of the admiring wonder of the guests and others about the hotel. It is made entirely of wood and when it is considered that it was made by eye, no measurements being used, the accuracy of the proportions is surprising. Almost every detail is perfect, the eccentrics and reversing gear working properly. It is painted to represent metal and is numbered "25", the same as the Maine Central engine which went into Maranocook last fall. Orren is about seventeen years old and his father, Daniel Eaton, is an engineer on the Maine Central road.

Local military men are talking up the project, and there seems to be no reason why it should not be realized, of organizing the four Lewiston militia companies, together with the Auburn Light Infantry, into a battalion and drilling in that formation once a month or thereabouts. It would be excellent practice, the need of which is felt considerably and would foster an emulative spirit between the several organizations which could only be productive of good. The design is either to elect a permanent Major to command the battalion or choose the captains of the component organizations in rotation according to seniority of commission. Drills would take place upon the Bates College campus if obtainable, or elsewhere where suitable ground could be found.

Cumberland.

Hon. Josiah H. Drummond has been elected vice president of the Union Mutual Life Insurance Company, and will act as president during the absence of Mr. DeWitt in Europe.

The Portland Opera House Company was organized at Portland, Saturday, with a capital stock of $75,000; par value shares, $100. Phillip H. Brown was elected president; H. R. Virgin, treasurer and clerk; Philip H. Brown, Wm. G. Davis, Geo. S. Hunt, R. Williams, Geo. C. Burgess, directors. A thorough canvass of the city is to be made for subscriptions.

Saturday night, as Mr. Granville Quincy, of Turner's Island, night engineer at the Forest City Sugar Refinery, Portland, was putting a belt upon a shaft he was caught in the belt and whirled over the shaft, several times, his clothing being stripped from his body. His left arm was badly broken, and he received other painful injuries.

The fourth annual meeting of the Maine Hotel Proprietors' Association comes off in Portland, on Friday, June 7th, at 2 P. M. The programme includes a business meeting in the afternoon and a banquet at the Preble House in the evening. One-half rates will be allowed members over the Maine Central Railroad. There has been no meeting of the association since the annual session in June of last year, and it is earnestly to be desired that there be a large representation of members.

A boy who was fishing off the wharf at Jones' Landing, Peak's Island, Saturday afternoon, fell off just as the steamer Forest Queen was making her landing. A rope was thrown from the steamer, but the boy failed to catch it and he was carried in under the wharf by the waves. He sank under the water twice and was going down the third time when the fireman of the steamer grabbed him and pulled him on board the boat. The boy refused to give his name.

Company. The substance under this treatment becomes perfectly solid, yet the peculiar lubricating qualities of the graphite are in no way impaired. A box placed under that main shaft in this shop three weeks ago shows no signs of wear either in box or shafting, and demonstrates the correctness of Mr. Holmes' theory in the matter.

Knox.

A dispatch from Thomaston, says there is a prospect of a new boom in the line of business in that section. Messrs. James A. Creighton & Co. have just put in their new kilns and propose heating them by water gas, which is easily produced from soft coal. The result is anxiously looked for by the lime burners of this section, as wood for the kilns is constantly growing less in quantity and higher in price.

Lincoln.

The Haynes mill, at Wiscasset, started up Monday, with a force of about seventy-five men. Between three and four thousand logs were towed last week. It is probable that 100,000 logs will be sawed at the mill during the season.

Oxford.

Mrs. Jeanette Herrick, who died a few days ago at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Isaac Noyes, at Greenwood, would have been one hundred years old, in October next. Until very recently she was able to perform considerable work about the house.

Sagadahoc.

Again there is strong talk of an iron shipyard for Bath, for which the B. Y. M. B. C. raised $20,000, two years ago, says the Bath Independent. This time, an Augusta capitalist is interested in the movement.

Bowdoinham has a mammoth new corn factory, two hundred and twenty-five feet long by thirty-five feet wide. The building is nearly completed, and is situated on the land of Robert Butterfield, just opposite the Maine Central depot. Some months since, Mr. W. B. Kendall, the fertilizer man and an indefatigable worker, on interviewing Mr. H. C. Baxter, of Brunswick, found that gentleman would operate a factory in that town if the proper acreage of corn and a building could be secured. One hundred and fifty acres were secured in a comparatively short time. The necessary subscriptions to build a building required a longer time and have but recently been completed. Noble M. Baker, of that place, contracted to erect the building for $1,750.

Washington.

While playing in a fire, Saturday, the clothes of the child of Albert French, of Calais, took fire and were burned entirely from his body. The fire was extinguished before the child received any severe injuries.

Game Warden French seized two salmon nets belonging to unknown parties for illegal fishing. One net was seventy-eight feet long and the other sixty-eight feet long.

York.

The post-office at Cornish was entered Friday night, the safe blown open and about $300, half in money and half in stamps, taken by the burglars. The post-office was kept by Isaac N. Brackett in the block used by him as a general store. In the store was another safe belonging to Postmaster Brackett containing considerable money of his own as well as a sum belonging to Howard Brackett, town treasurer. In all, it amounted to about $400. No traces have been found of the burglars, though it is thought they are the same men who broke into the post-office at Steep Falls, Thursday night. Two men were in Cornish, Monday, and advertised to give a free show in the public square that night, but failed to do so, giving their names as M. Simons and Sol. Rofsky, and professing to hail from Boston.

Castine Letter.

[Regular Correspondence Whig and Courier.]

Memorial Day was observed here in a most fitting manner by Chas. L. Stevens Post. There never were so many in line before on Memorial Day. Everything passed off pleasantly. The Cutter fired minute guns during the services at the Cemetery.

The Bucksport Nine seem to slur the Castine Nine through the Bucksport Clipper. They state that they beat, as usual. We think the games are about even, and the Castine Nines did some good playing, and led the Bucksports for quite a while.

The Belfast Nine came over last week and played the Castine Nine, and played seven innings, with the following results: Belfast, 17; Castine, 20.

On Saturday the High School Nines came down from Bangor and played the Castine Nine, with the following result: Bangors, 7; Castines, 11. They left off on account of the lateness of the hour, at the seventh inning.

John F. Rea has contracted to build a road in Brooksville for J. Murry Howe.

Messrs. Bowden Brothers have just completed a nice road from High to Perkins street.

The Town Treasurer received ninety-one crow's heads, Saturday, from Albert Webster, North Castine.

The body of Willis Tyler, who was drowned at Fort Fairfield, April 27, has been recovered, and brought home and buried. It had floated nearly one hundred miles from where he was drowned.

The warm showers that visit us nearly every day is just what is needed for the growing crops, which are two weeks earlier than usual, especially grass, and a good prospect for a heavy May crop, where not winter killed.

Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others, but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:—

"For two years, I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyron, (of Fernandina, Fla.,) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

Whig and Courier.

BOUTELLE & BURR, PROPRIETORS.

C. A. BOUTELLE, Editor.

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle & Burr, and communications intended for publication should be addressed: "Editor of Whig and Courier."

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5, 1889.

The New York Evening Post refers to the Providence Journal as an "independent Republican" paper. The Post has become so accustomed to misrepresentation that it cannot possibly tell the truth. The Journal is no nearer a Republican paper than the Post and no one would ever so abuse the Republican party as to fasten the Post upon it even in the remotest degree.

The Boston Journal says: The Herald consumes a column of its editorial space in showing how much more consistent it has been during the last ten years than either of the two great parties. This will make Herald readers who have been wont to find contradictory opinions in that paper, not merely in successive issues, but in adjacent columns of the same issue, rub their eyes.

Gov. Beaver telegraphs President Harrison that conservative estimates place the loss of life in the Johnstown disaster at from 5,000 to 10,000, and the loss of property at from twenty-five to forty million dollars. The people of Johnstown, he says, are fairly housed and the supply of food so far has been equal to the demand, but food and clothing are still greatly needed.

The Albany Times, is calling upon Democrats to get together and present a united front in 1892, says of the last free trade campaign: "It was a phantom issue, even had it been built on honest or popular principles." This is not encouraging to the free traders who are again grooming Grover Cleveland for the race. Cleveland's nomination will mean free trade whatever the convention may say in its platform.

When a Republican paper comments upon the public utterances of Mr. Cleveland the Democratic and Mugwump organs at once claim that it only indicates the worry in the Republican mind over Mr. Cleveland's supposed candidacy. Judged by their own test these organs must be in a perfect nightmare of fear over President Harrison because their columns are largely given over to puerile attempts to belittle his administration.

The next census of the United States, the taking of which will be commenced on the first day of next June, will contain the names, organizations, and length of service of those who served in the army, navy, or marine corps of the United States in the War of the Rebellion and who are survivors at the time, and the widows of soldiers, sailors, or marines. This will make one of the most valuable volumes of the census report, and one that will be highly prized.

The great Democratic party cannot be frightened or cajoled into "getting together" on the Randall platform in 1892. It will in that year sink or swim as a revenue reform or lower tariff party.—Buffalo Courier.

The Buffalo organ carefully refrains from calling its party by its real title, namely, the free trade party, but the phrases it selects mean the same thing only they are sugar coated to deceive the people. We hope the party will have the courage to follow the advice of the Courier and sail under its true colors in the next campaign and not go back to its old-time tactics of facing two ways at the same time.

The banquet in New York in honor of Mr. Cleveland seems to have added fuel to the factional warfare in the Democratic ranks in the Empire State. Gov. Hill was not only hissed during his speech, but Mr. Cleveland in marked contrast to the honeyed words spoken by the Governor did not give Hill the slightest recognition when he addressed the gathering. This so excited the ire of the Albany Argus that it resents the studied insult as follows: "Governor Hill did more for Grover Cleveland during the Presidential election than any other Democrat in the country, and it would have been only just to have mentioned the fact."

The arrant humbug of all the talk in the Mugwump papers about the progress of reform under the Cleveland administration is being thoroughly exposed. First come the disclosures regarding the New York Custom House and now the Philadelphia post-office furnishes a good text for a discourse upon the hypocrisy that has been labeled reform during the Cleveland regime. A letter carrier has confessed that he opened a mail bag in the Philadelphia office and took out certain examination papers addressed to the Secretary of the local civil service board. These papers were given to one of the employes, who simply had them opened and copies made of the questions and answers. The answers were then verified by competent persons, corrected where they were not correct, and copies of the whole were made "on manila paper with a typewriter," and peddled out to ignoramuses who were to come before the board for examination.

The Safety of Reservoirs.

[Philadelphia Press.]

The extent of the disaster at Johnstown will direct public attention to other reservoirs that may give way, causing death and destruction. There are a great many of them in this country, and as a rule they are not properly inspected. There is reason to fear that some of these are not strong enough to sustain the weight of the water that may be precipitated by a storm against them. If a dam is safe it will not give way even though many feet of water may flow over it. But there are few such dams in this country.

It is possible to construct a dam that will withstand the frosts and freshets of a century. But this involves such an expense that cheaper methods are generally adopted. This was the cause of the terrible Mill River disaster in Massachusetts in 1874, which resulted in the loss of over 200 lives. In that case the jury found that the engineering work was discreditable and that the contractors had been delinquent and that even the State Legislature was to blame in authorizing the construction of the reservoir without taking proper means to secure its safety. There need be no surprise if something of the kind is found to be the case at Johnstown.

The dam was constructed by the State over forty years ago as a feeder to the old Pennsylvania Canal. It is not improbable that it was a defective structure from the beginning. It was subjected to an extraordinary strain on Friday, but proper engineering work would have provided for such an emergency. There is a dam 1,000 feet long built across the Merrimac River in Massachusetts which has stood the floods for nearly half a century without starting a stone, or opening a crack, or costing its owners a single dollar for repairs or protection. It was built of solid masonry in the most painstaking manner, everything about it being carefully tested. If as much care had been taken at Johnstown we venture to say that the dam would still be intact, although Johnstown might have suffered from the floods that prevailed generally.

Great strides have been made in the engineering profession in recent years, but even now, the best engineers differ as to what is absolutely necessary for the safety of dams. New York has been discussing a proposed dam for a reservoir at Quaker Bridge, on the Croton River, and some very marked differences of opinion have been developed. Some of the best engineers expressed directly opposite views on the subject. General Newton, formerly chief engineer of the United States Army, declared that if a curved dam were constructed it would be certain to give away, while Commissioner Barnes, who was chief engineer of the South Penn Railroad and stands high in his profession, expressed the belief that any other than a curved dam would not withstand the pressure. Similar differences of opinion were developed among engineers who were called upon to testify on this matter. Hence, it may not be surprising, when engineers can not agree as to what is necessary for safety, that disasters like that at Mill River and Johnstown occur even after engineers have pronounced the structures safe.

What the public has most to fear in such cases is defective workmanship by contractors. This was found to be one cause of the Mill River disaster. But even in the light of such frightful catastrophes, both in this country and in Europe, this kind of work continues and even seems to be on the increase. The reservoir and tunnel recently constructed under the supervision of the Government engineers at Washington, just as they were about completed, were discovered to be incapable of holding water. Astounding frauds had been committed, and the masonry work in many places was a mere shell with no filling back of it. Somewhat similar frauds were unearthed in the new aqueduct being constructed by the city of New York. Barrels and wood were found back of the walls, where there should be solid masonry work. Until such crimes are properly punished reservoirs and other public works can not be regarded as safe unless after the most careful and frequent inspection and even then they can not always be safe from unusual natural forces.

It would be a surprise to most people if they knew how many order pictures and never call for them. And on the other hand the number who sit and never order at all! We don't know that we suffer any more than other Photographers in this respect, but it is a crying evil all the same, and one that we propose to remedy as far as lies in our power, therefore I have decided on a general reduction of prices on all my work, and shall demand part payment at the time of sitting of EVERY ONE. The Great Horror

Continues to Grow Worse with Each Day's Story.

Loss of Life Set at 10,000 to 15,000.

The Sad Work of Recovery and Burial.

Pneumonia Seizing Upon the Living Sufferers.

Everything Possible Being Done to Alleviate Their Necessities.

The Damages by Floods in Other Places.

Burying the Victims.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 4. This was the day set aside by the citizens' committee for burying all the unidentified dead placed in the morgues since Sunday at 10 o'clock. The men in charge of the burying were busy all day. There were no pathetic scenes at these burials. The men hired to do the work seemed to act as a matter of business, the bodies being interred in the cemetery nearest the place they happened to be found. It will take several days to bury the bodies now temporarily lying in the different cemeteries. There have been few graves dug until this morning owing to the fact that there are no implements to dig with. A large detachment of men arrived from Pittsburg during the day, and were put to work digging graves immediately, and about 300 bodies were taken to the different cemeteries during the day.

The Pneumonia has Broken Out on Prospect Hill, to which several hundred people fled from the flood Friday. Every little house upon the hill, a hundred or two of them, has thrown its doors open to receive the bruised and half clad fugitives on the day of the deluge and every one is now a crude hospital. Half the women who scaled the height were so overcome with fright that they have been bed-ridden ever since. There had been pneumonia on the hill, but only a few isolated cases. To day several fresh cases were developed among the fugitives. A local physician said the prospects for the scourge were promising. The enfeebled condition of the patients, the unhealthy atmosphere pervading the valley and the necessarily close quarters in which the people are crowded render the spread of the disease almost certain. A carload of provisions, and another from Columbus, containing clean mattresses and bedding, came to-day, specified for the Prospect Hill sufferers.

Cambria Hospital

is in charge of a corps of Altoona physicians. The wards are full of bruised and suffering ones, dragged from the flood. Several yellow flags were noticed sticking up from the black wreckage above the stone bridge, a new plan adopted by the sanitary corps to indicate at what points bodies are located.

Adjutant General Hastings this afternoon denied the stories published in the newspapers that there had been wholesale lynching and robbing here since Sunday.

The Work of Recovery.

At the present rate there will soon be a live man digging in the ruins to every dead one. Evans Jones, the Pittsburg contractor, stated to-day that 2,200 men would be at work in the ruins by to-morrow morning. Three hundred arrived from Pittsburg to-day and 500 more are announced for to-morrow. Twenty-six foremen here keep the unwieldly and almost exhausted forces under masterful control. Although scattered all over, the waste places to-day heavy work was done on the point district, where a couple of hundred mansions lie in solid heaps of brick, stone and timbers. Here the labors of the searchers were rewarded by the discovery of a corpse about every five minutes. As a general thing the bodies are mangled and unrecognizable, unless by marks or letters on their persons. In every case decomposition has set in, the work of the searchers becoming a Test of Stomachs, as Well as of Hearts.

Supt. Kirk, of the Pittsburg dynamite, said: "I will not attempt to loosen the wreckage by dynamite, as it is full of dead bodies and they would be terribly mangled if dynamite were used. I will employ small cartridges for shattering the heavy timbers occasionally, that is all."

A reeking menace to life and health lies in the bed of the Conemaugh for 800 yards above the Pennsylvania railroad bridge. When the drift accumulated against this adamantine structure, hundreds, some say thousands, of bodies were pinioned under the debris. It extends across the river 400 feet and twice that distance up the stream. Fire burned the top off the huge pile and left the foul sediment to act as a sieve for the Conemaugh. Hundreds of the place, but every timber held others where the strongest machinery is required to reach and liberate them. Blasters have been at work all the afternoon near the stone bridge. Mr. Kirk decided that the bodies will rot before half can be reached in this manner, hence the new plan. When the waters surged against the big stone bridge and were repelled, they formed a vent through the embankment which has been washed away. The wreckage was piled up against the bridge and the flood was turned into the new channel, thus leaving the old bed a receptacle for drift. The water has been running through the new channel ever since. The plan is to build a wall along the old river course, turn the water into the drift and flush it out. This is a monster scheme, but Mr. Kirk thinks an earth wall can be thrown up by to-morrow evening. A large force of men will be put to work at once.

Latest Estimates of the Dead.

Superintendent Morgan, of the Cambria Iron Company, regarded as an exceptionally level headed man, returned to-day from a tour of the entire flooded district. He declared that only about 15,000 persons are now alive where 29,500 lived before the flood. Adjutant General Hastings maintains that the death list may not exceed 8,000, and of this number he thinks 3,000 bodies will never be recovered. Mr. McConnaughy, chief of the bureau of registration, said to-day that he was convinced that the number who perished was fully 10,000.

SOME GRAVE CHARGES

Made by General Manager Smith of the Associated Press.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 4. I notice that the secretary of the South Fork Fishing Club said yesterday that the club had not filed an indemnity bond, as claimed by a citizen of Ebensburg, and that no complaints had ever been made about the safety of the dam by any [illegible] He is undoubtedly correct as to the bond, but is mistaken [illegible]

[illegible] leak of wa[illegible] on and he called on the Sheriff of Cambria County and told him it was his duty to apply to the court for an injunction. The Sheriff promised to give the matter his attention but, instead of going before the court he went to the Cambria Company for consultation. An employe was sent up to make an inspection and his report was favorable to the reservoir work. The Sheriff went no further but the gentleman referred to said he had not failed to make public his protest at the time and to renew it frequently. This recommendation for an injunction and protest was as a hackneyed subject. Its confirmation was certainly had at South Fork, Conemaugh, Millvale and Johnstown. On the fatal Friday rumors of an expected break were prevalent at these places early in the day, and citizens remarked that the rumor was a familiar incident of the annual freshets. It was the old classic story of "Wolf, wolf." They gave up the first floors to the water and retired up stairs to wait until the river should recede, as it had done often before, scouting the oft-told story of the breaking of the reservoir. The reader will note the remarkable conflict between the shale and clay story of the mine owner and the published statement of Gen. Morehead, who had charge of the construction, that the masonry was of solid granite and limestone, and believed to be as Enduring as the Pyramids of Egypt.

The awful disaster would seem to confirm the allegation of the use of unfit materials in construction. The number of passengers on the day express known to be lost is six, besides these two ladies are missing and unaccounted for, who may be alive. The conductor at Conemaugh, on the fateful day, claims to have run through the cars and told the passengers to run to the mountains. The passengers who survive are anxious to make the acquaintance of that conductor. They neither saw nor heard him on Friday. When the passengers reached the mountain side they found two conductors in beautiful white caps. Their manner was calm and their clothing unspotted. I asked one why he did not notify the passengers of and he replied in some confusion that he had not time. His companion made a report to his superior, which report was carried over the mountain by a passenger, that night. There was nothing in it to indicate to the passengers that it was any of his concern. He reported the loss of two trains. In striking contrast to the neglect of duty of these conductors, it is pleasant to note the manly conduct of others. The first—always the first—mention should be made of the locomotive engineers and firemen, whose bravery and devotion were conspicuous. They never neglected to give such warning as they could in the face of the danger, in some cases, of certain death. A brakeman riding deadhead, whose name cannot be recalled, rescuing women and children at the risk of his own life. J. S. Aber, Pullman conductor, was efficient and cool-headed, and W. H. Woodyer, cook of car Aragon, John P. Waugh, porter of parlor car Chloria, stood manfully by G. F. Griffiths, of the Norwich line, in the rescue of passengers. Woodyer stood upon the top of car Aragon, axe in hand, ready to cut the roof to prevent the smothering of those within.

Rendered Splendid Service

THE OTHER DAMAGING FLOODS.

Terrible Havoc at Williamsport.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 4. There is no direct communication between Williamsport, Pa., sixty miles southeast, on the Northern Central Road. Canton, Pa., is the nearest point to which telegraph lines extend. Below Canton twenty-five miles of railroad and an equal number of miles of telegraph wire are gone. Two gentlemen who left Williamsport yesterday morning bring the first authentic news from that city. They say the havoc worked by the deluge there beggars description. They assert that hundreds of people have been drowned. That city is wholly submerged and hundreds of women and children are huddled on house tops awaiting subsidence of the flood. In the vicinity of the Park Hotel the water is eight feet deep. Stores on Third and Fourth streets are all ruined and there is a scarcity of food in the city. The financial loss will reach into the millions.

The bridge at Maynard street was swept away. Some seventy-five people were on the structure at the time and it is believed that all were drowned.

Heavy Flood at Newport.

NEWPORT, Perry County, Pa., June 4. Telegraphic communication was opened with the outside world this afternoon. Two-thirds of the town was overflowed. Several families are destitute and their homes swept away. The water was seven feet deep in the streets in the central part of the town. The loss is estimated at half a million dollars.

Anxiety Regarding Lock Haven.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4. There is great anxiety because of the fact that no news is obtainable from Lock Haven. There are reports of disaster in that locality but telegraphic communication has been cut off since 9 P. M. Friday. Lock Haven is a place of 12,000 inhabitants and badly situated in case of a flood. Supt. Pettit of the Pennsylvania road, made his way to the edge of the city of Lock Haven this morning. The principal citizens say there is no suffering at that place. All the houses had from six to ten feet of water in them and the mud still remains in the streets and houses. Only one person was drowned at Lock Haven but several lives are reported lost at Mill Hall. Supt. Pettit's despatch is the first news received from Lock Haven, since Friday, and the very favorable outlook reported by him is the cause of general rejoicing. The through mails delayed at Altoona were started over the mountains to Pittsburg this morning. One hundred and thirty-two passengers accompanied them. The wires to Altoona and Williamsport are working very badly on account of the rain which is still falling and only the most meagre despatches can be sent and received.

Heavy Losses at Williamsport, Pa.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 4. Mayor Foreman, of Williamsport, has telegraphed Governor Beaver regarding the situation at that place. The boom has been cleared of logs from the principal yards along the river front and manufactured lumber has been swept away, and houses of poor people nearest the river carried away with all they possessed. Thousands of people are homeless, and without anything but the clothes they have upon their backs. Provisions are scarce and most needed, and many people are in absolute want for the necessities of life. Although bereft of property themselves our business men responded nobly for present necessities. At a meeting called yesterday $7,000 in cash was raised. They badly need disinfectants. Dead animals and all kinds of filth are strewed upon the streets. Grave fears of an epidemic are entertained. The stocks of goods in stores in the center of the city are ruined. It is impossible to estimate the loss and damage to different kinds of property.

Five Millions Dollars

is the lowest estimate of loss on lumber alone, and other losses are larger. The surrounding country suffered just as badly. Booms, bridges and villages were swept away, and the loss of life was considerable. A responsible relief committee is organized in each ward of the city and aid is administered as fast as they get it. One thousand military tents will afford the greatest possible relief to the people now without shelter. The lumber all having gone other temporary shelter cannot be provided soon enough. Send us several large [illegible] tents where we can feed the people in large numbers. The low ground where many of these people reside is an unfit place for them to return to for sanitary reasons.

The Mails Safe.

WASHINGTON, June 4. A telegram dated Harrisburg today was received by General Superintendent Bell of the Railway Mail Service from Clerk P. McGowan, who was on train 8, leaving Pittsburg [illegible]

At White Bear, Minn., on Memorial Day an address was delivered by Hon. F. C. Stevens, formerly of this city. A Minnesota paper says: "It was a fine piece of rhetoric, the language was chaste, its imagery effective and refined and its sentiment fully as exalted as the occasion demanded." Mr. Stevens is a member of the present House of Representatives of Minnesota, representing St. Paul, and is a son of Dr. J. Stevens, of this city.

The house was filled with smoke; but the only damage was the destruction of the bedding.

The electric cars did not run yesterday forenoon and part of the afternoon owing to the commutator upon the dynamo being taken out at the [illegible] & Egery Iron Works to be ground down. The cars began running late in the afternoon. There will be no delay from this cause in the future, as we are informed.

NEWS FROM THE DRIVES. The news from the upriver drives is favorable for a successful [illegible] of about all of the logs, and but little difficulty is being experienced at the present time, as the rain of yesterday and the day before has given a rise of water which is expected to prove sufficient to bring in the logs at a good rate. Monday afternoon the Mattawamkeag and East Branch drives were on the lower pitch of the Mohawk. At that time they were coming along rather slowly, and at the rate they were going would not probably get in for two or three weeks. Recent news from Reed's drive was to the effect that it was in Grand Lake. The forward part of Crane's drive on the Gulf has been boomed at the mouth of the Gulf stream. The last heard from the drive was that water was needed to insure the drive's coming in with all the logs. At that time all but 900,000 feet had gone through, and it is expected that that amount of logs must have joined the rest by this time. If the drive gets into the lake at the Katahdin Iron Works it ought to come along all right from that point. Cornelius Murphy's drive reached Pemadumcook Lake from Farrar Brook on Thursday. He has from three to four millions.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

The Adams and Cook Dramatic Company presented "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at the Opera House last evening. The performance ran very smoothly and the audience seemed to appreciate it. Mr. Shea in the title role did very commendable work and received considerable applause, a curtain call being given him after the third act. The difficult part was well portrayed by him throughout. Mr. Adams was very good as "Dr. Lanyon" and created some, and the only amusement. The other members of the cast were not up to their parts, although they had little to do, Mr. Varney, in particular, seeming to have little idea of what to do with himself.

BANGOR THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.

The Anniversary Exercises.

Examination of Classes—Trustees Meeting—Address Before the Rhetorical Society by Rev. George A. Gordon, of Boston.

The anniversary exercises at the Theological Seminary commenced yesterday with the examination of the classes at 9 o'clock in the chapel. The Senior and Middle classes were examined in New Testament exegesis, under the leadership of Prof. Ropes. He led in a brief and appropriate prayer, and the class proceeded to render the text of chapters in Corinthians and Romans, translating from the Greek and giving the explanation of words and sentences and their significance and relation one to the other. At 10.30 the Junior class was examined in New Testament exegesis by Prof. Ropes. After singing the hymn, "Children of the Heavenly King," the class read from the Greek the twenty-first chapter of John, each taking a section, translating and giving the force and beauty of the chapter.

At 11.15, the Senior class was examined in homiletics by Prof. Sewall. United in singing "Sweetly Breathe the Lyres Above," accompanied by the organ. The members of the class each took a topic assigned to them at the moment, and gave their views of it in the five minutes allowed them, which was followed by questions of the professor and visitors. Such topics as preaching, topical and exegetical, written and extemporaneous, and the results to be attained; the pastoral work, the church, its duties, etc. There were also several plans of sermons.

At 2.30 P. M. occurred the examination of the junior class in Hebrew, by Prof. Denio. Prayer was offered by Rev. S. D. Towne, of Hampden, member of the visiting committee from Penobscot county. The course of study was explained by Prof. Denio, and the class was called upon to translate from chapters in Ruth and Jonah, giving the derivation and grammatical structure, the force of words and phrases. The characteristics of Hebrew poetry were given.

At 3.30 the senior class was examined by Prof. Paine in church history. The hymn "O for a Thousand Tongues to Sing" was sung heartily. Prof. Paine remarked that the class had been directed quite prominently to the consideration of the history of the church in regard to doctrines, considering an important point in the qualifications of the ministry for the advancement of the truth and of the kingdom of our Lord. Topics were assigned to each in the questions calling out the views of the fathers in the centuries past in regard to the truth they cherished and presented, comparing each and testing them by the word of God, and closing the question by desiring the class to give their criticism of the doctrines they had considered.

The enthusiasm of the Professors and the responsiveness of the pupils, and the occasional remarks and questions of the visitors made the examinations attractive and profitable.

Among the alumni and visitors from abroad are the following who are members of the Visiting Committee of the General Conference: Rev. C. W. Porter, representing Aroostook Conference; Rev. Edwin R. Wilson, Woodfords, Cumberland Conference; Rev. J. B. Carruthers for Cumberland, North Conference; Rev. F. S. Hunnewell, of Warren, for Lincoln and Sagadahoc Conference; Rev. S. D. Towne for Penobscot; Rev. P. B. Thayer, of Garland, for Piscataquis; Rev. T. F. Millett, Bingham, for Somerset; Rev. C. Harbutt, of Bridgton, for Union Conference; also, Rev. I. P. Warren, editor of the Christian Mirror. Rev. Messrs. C. B. Wathen, formerly of Orono; W. H. McBride, Brownville; T. S. Lewis, Green's Landing; A. H. Wheelock, of Topsham; S. W. Chapin, Dedham; B. B. Merrill and A. A. Lewis, of Brewer; George Howard from Lowell, Mass.

ADDRESS BEFORE THE RHETORICAL SOCIETY.

In the evening the annual address was delivered before the Rhetorical Society by Rev. George A. Gordon, pastor of the New Old South church, Boston. Notwithstanding the rain, there was a good attendance to hear the eloquent preacher, and none were disappointed in what they heard. Mr. J. S. Williamson, President of the Rhetorical society, presided over the meeting and with Rev. Mr. Gordon and Prof. L. F. Stearns, occupied the pulpit. The exercises opened with an organ voluntary by the church organist, Miss Mae Sibly, which was rendered with excellent effect. The hymn "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" was then sung. An impressive prayer was delivered by Prof. Stearns, of the Seminary, and it was followed by the singing of another hymn.

President Williamson then introduced Rev. Mr. Gordon in a few pleasing words. The following is an abstract of his address, which was upon "The Use of Symbolism." The preacher's problem is a double one. If he has no ideas he cannot preach, and if he has ideas and nothing else he cannot preach. A man without ideas has nothing to trade with, while the man with ideas and nothing else is so restrained that he cannot dispose of his wealth. Style is a matter of taste and skill, but it has nothing to do with the intellect. The union of noble thought and noble language is something sacred, and is wonderful in its effect; but style should be used for revelation and it is effective in illustration. A sermon devoid of illustration has but little effect, for illustration appeals to the imagination, and he who uses it rightly will make the best impression upon his hearers.

There is a world for the eye, and a world for the ear, a world for the hand, and a world for the imagination, a world for [illegible] for they are presentations of sentiments through things which appeal to the senses. The symbol of Goethe is the poem, of Beethoven music, of Demosthenes the oration. It is the truth in the material image that presents the truth to the sense.

The great objection to symbolism is its liability to be abused. The speaker then gave several examples of infelicitous symbolism. Notwithstanding this, its use is so much greater than its harm that it should always be used by the preacher when a striking effect is desired. Plato at all times sought forms to give expression to the spiritual. The laws of nature are in human life, and Christianity is well illustrated and set before us by the use of symbolism, which is far from being, as some suppose, the resort of brilliant but unintellectual men. The Bible itself gives us many examples of symbols, and that is the first effect made upon the mind of the reader who cons its text. Throughout it is an emblem of experience. The originality, truth, and aptness of the parables have been the wonder of centuries, for they impress the mind with a suggestiveness that is very fruitful in its effect. The parable of the Prodigal Son stands as an excellent example of the teaching of our Lord from the beginning, and what a wealth of revelation has been obtained from it.

The preacher should not depend upon one method in addressing his hearers, but he should have a variety at his command with which he can adapt himself to the tastes of those before him. His symbols should be suited to the intelligence and cultivation of his hearers. The preacher should have the love of ideas and valid conceptions and when he hears a poor sermon he must say to himself that with ideas it would not have been so ineffective. First let him, in preparing his sermon, have his ideas and then let him clothe them in the proper language. The form should not be made to fit the dress, but the dress the form. A mistake is often made in suiting the idea to style. The first law of symbolism is the respect for truth, then an enthusiasm for a striking presentation of the truth. The preacher should consult the tastes of his people, and if it is an advancing community his standard is a rising one. The strong desire for a striking presentation will make him do his best, and he should continually feel that he is serving his Master. Nothing can make his mental vision so certain and his speech so effective. He should feel that he is to do good, to move and persuade men to the right way. Everything that insures victory over evil should be used, and the devouring desire to impart the truth to men will insure the right use of symbolism, and not the abuse. The preacher himself must be a symbol and show by his conduct that he is imbued with the spirit of God.

The address was a most able and interesting one, and from beginning to end held the close attention of all hearers, who felt well repaid for their attendance. To the members of the Rhetorical Society it was a source of instruction, that will be of much use in the future.

At the close of the address a hymn was sung and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Gordon. The singing during the evening was led by Deacon E. F. Duren, and Mr. Edwin C. Brown, and Mr. Conley, of the Seminary, and a number of the students acted as ushers.

The following is the programme for to-day's exercises:

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Opening of the June Term in This City.

HON. NATHAN WEBB, District Judge.
HON. A. H. DAVIS, Clerk of Court.
HON. GEORGE E. BIRD, United States Attorney.
HON. CHARLES B. HARMON, United States Marshal.
AUGUSTUS L. SMITH, GEORGE F. HATHAWAY, LEWIS STEWART, NOAH M. PRESCOTT, Deputy Marshals.
REUBEN TOWNSEND, Crier.

The June term of the United States District Court convened in this city yesterday forenoon at ten o'clock in the U. S. District Court room, with Judge Webb, of Portland, presiding. The officials arrived in the city Monday night and Marshal Harmon brought six persons to be arraigned, one for larceny, and the others for selling liquor without a United States license. The prisoners were lodged in jail where they will await the action of the grand jury. The indications are that the present term will be longer than usual as there is quite a large number of cases upon the docket and many witnesses. It is expected that the grand jury will not report before the last of the week or the first of next. The grand jury was empanelled in the forenoon, and at once entered upon its session. The following is the jury:

Nathaniel H. Dillingham, Bangor, foreman.
Alfred W. Miller, Auburn.
William G. Fifield, Augusta.
Vermont R. Luce, Augusta.
Jonathan F. Parkhurst, Bangor.
Stanwood T. Soule, Portland.

Beauty

Is desired and admired by all. Among the things which may best be done to enhance personal beauty is the daily use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. No matter what the color of the hair, this preparation gives it a lustre and pliancy that adds greatly to its charm. Should the hair be thin, harsh, dry, or turning gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the color, bring out a new growth, and render the old soft and shiny. For keeping the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, there is no better preparation in the market.

"I am free to confess that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor has convinced me that it is a genuine article. Its use has not only caused the hair of my wife and daughter to be but it has given my rather stunted mustache a respectable length and appearance."—R. Britton, Oakland, Ohio.

"My hair was coming out (without any assistance from my wife, either). I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, using only one bottle, and I now have as fine a head of hair as any one could wish for."—R. T. Schmitton, Dickson, Tenn.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor in my family for a number of years, and regard it as the best hair preparation I know of. It keeps the scalp clean, the hair soft and lively, and preserves the original color. My wife has used it for a long time with most satisfactory results."—Benjamin M. Johnson, M. D., Thomas Hill, Mo.

"My hair was becoming harsh and dry, but after using half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it grew black and glossy. I cannot express the joy and gratitude I feel."—Mabel C. Hardy, Delavan, Ill.

THE FORUM FOR JUNE.—In the Forum for June, Senator Edmunds discusses the decay of political morals indicated by the increasing purchase of voters. Another political article in this number is The Drift toward Annexation, by W. Blackburn Harte, an editorial writer for the Toronto Mail. Another political article in this number explains the advance of liberal even of American ideas, in a country much farther away than Canada. Mr. William Elliot Griffis, author of The Mikado's Empire, tells the leading features of the new constitution of Japan, under which, on February 11th, the government ceased to be an absolute and became a constitutional monarchy. Besides these articles about specific political subjects, there is an essay by W. S. Lilly, on The Ethics of Politics, wherein the artificial political morality which seeks to set up a different standard of judgment for public and for private conduct is examined and condemned. Mr. Adelbert Hamilton, of New York, a well-known writer on legal subjects, presents statistics to show the unnecessary cost of insurance by reason of what is practically a trust, maintained by the great companies. He favors government insurance. The Rev. Dr. William Barry describes The Moloch of Monopoly. The Rev. Dr. T. T. Munger, of New Haven, defends the Christian missionary against flippant criticism, and shows why his work is not to be judged by immediate concrete results. Dr. Henry D. Chapin, who has had large experience with the poor in New York, indicates practical ways of preventing poverty, without prescribing a panacea. Prof. John Stuart Blackie, the Scotch scholar, estimates the relative importance in the education of an English-speaking man of the modern and ancient languages, and explains the proper method of language teaching. Leonard Woolsey Bacon traces the decline in value of honorary academic titles and ridicules both Harvard and Yale, as well as the lesser colleges, for their degrading bestowal of LL.D. and D.D., and the clergy for its fondness for these semilunar fardels. The Queen of Roumania (Carmen Sylva) contributes a description of the social life of the Roumanian peasants. [The Forum Publishing Co., 253 Fifth Ave. N. Y. 50 cts.].

The June number of LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE contains the first of a series of papers of extraordinary interest. These are nothing less than the Recollections of George W. Childs, written from his own dictation by a personal friend. In the present paper Mr. Childs gives a sketch of his early life. This bit of autobiography cannot fail to excite the widest interest, portraying the early struggles and ambitions of a representative American, who has made his name famous throughout the civilized world. To the youth of to-day it points a shining example. "I owe my success," says Mr. Childs, "to industry, temperance, and frugality." The sketch is characterized by that modesty which belongs only to the really great. This is especially evidenced in Mr. Childs' own story of his wonderful business successes. Many interesting, personal, reminiscences of great men, with whom Mr. Childs has enjoyed intimacy, are given, such as Longfellow, Irving, Motley, Ticknor, Hawthorne, Benton, Bancroft, Lowell, and a host of others. In the next paper Mr. Childs will give his recollections of Gen. Grant; his long and unbroken intimacy with this famous man will impart to the article a peculiar interest.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE, in its June number, pays a graceful compliment to the men who, in recent years, have borne a large share in sustaining the reputation of its pages for artistic excellence. It publishes an essay by Henry James reviewing the work in black and white of F. D. Millet, Edwin A. Abbey, Alfred Parsons, George H. Boughton, George du Maurier, and C. S. Reinhart. Accompanying the article are portraits of these artists, and several views of Broadway, the old English village in a hollow of the green hills in Worcestershire, where Mr. Abbey and Mr. Parsons have made their home. As if to confirm Mr. James' appreciative criticism, this number contains a full-page drawing by Mr. Du Maurier, one of Wordsworth's sonnets illustrated by Mr. Parsons, and Praed's quaint poem, Quince, illustrated with nine drawings by Mr. Abbey. This number of Harper's is also notable for two first appearances. Miss Nannie Mayo Fitzhugh, of Kentucky, contributes a short story, Tother Miss Mandy, and the English psychologist, James Sully, his initial effort in fiction, Friendly Rivalry: a Story of the Twentieth Century. Professor George Howard Darwin, son of the late Charles Darwin, explains the mystery and the charm of Saturn's Rings. Joseph Jastrow, Ph.D., gives a clear, scientific estimate of The Problems of Psychic Research. In a compact article entitled The Negro on the Stage, Laurence Hutton makes a beginning in what has hitherto been lacking—a history of negro minstrelsy in America. In his second paper upon Social Life in Russia the Vicomte Eugene Melchior de Vogue follows the summer flight of the Russian seigneurs from St. Petersburg to their great estates in the interior. C. H. Farnham is the author of a richly illustrated paper upon Montreal, and the famous war correspondent, Dr. William Howard Russel, of an account of An Incident in the Irish Rebellion. Instalments of Jupiter Lights, by Constance Fenimore Woolson, and A Little Journey in the World, by Charles Dudley Warner, together with poems by A. B. Ward, Harriet Prescott Spofford, and an anonymous author, complete the list of contributions. In the Departments of the Magazine, George William Curtis quotes a hitherto unpublished letter of Motley to a young literary aspirant; William Dean Howells treats of a much-disputed point in the theory and practice of fiction; and Charles Dudley Warner touches upon the fashion and the art of social screaming.

The Highest Structure in the World, in other words the Eiffel Tower, is the subject of the first article in the ATLANTIC MONTHLY for June. It is devoted to an account of the methods of construction of the tower, and comparison with other buildings of great height. This article is written by Mr. Wm. A. Eddy. Bonny Hugh of Ironbrook, a story of life among the miners, is contributed by Edith Brower. Charles Eliot Norton gives an account of Mr. Rawdon Brown and his discovery of the gravestone of Banished Norfolk, at Venice. This curiously interesting article is embellished with a picture of the carved stone itself. Mr. George Moritz Wahl gives an account of The German Gymnasium in its Working Order, showing the course of studies and discipline pursued in these schools. The Thousand and One Nights is an account, by C. H. Toy, of the literary genealogy and various versions of the Arabian Nights. Mr. Horace E. Scudder has a thoughtful article on The State, the Church, and the School; while Prof. Royce continues his Reflections after a Wandering Life in Australasia. Brevet Martyrs is an account of some of the queer characters who passed through the doors of a sanitary commission, Soldiers' Home, in Ohio. The Rev. William Burnet Wright makes Birmingham, the subject of an article entitled A City of Refuge, and tells of the many great movements which have originated in that comparatively modern English town. Mr. Bynner's serial, The Begum's Daughter, full of local color of early Knickerbocker life, and Mr. James' Tragic Muse, are both represented by ample installments. Besides poetry by Edith Thomas, and a stirring Scotch ballad, called The War-Cry of Clan Grant, the number closes with reviews of the lives of Hector Berlioz and Bishop Ken, and the usual departments. The number as a whole, is of more than ordinary value. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

Brigade Headquarters.

The new brigade headquarters building at the State muster grounds at Augusta is to be located on the bluff nearest Western avenue and facing the north. From plans just completed by Major J. H. Cochrane, the well known architect of Augusta, it appears that the size is fifty feet in length and twenty-five feet in width inside measurements. It is divided by a central corridor ten by twenty-five feet into two apartments twenty by twenty-five feet, each, one of which will be assigned to the Commander-in-Chief and staff and the other to the general officers and their staffs. Each room is lighted by four windows and is provided with brick open fireplaces for burning wood. Its posts are fourteen feet between sills and plates. The height of the apartments and corridors is ten and one-half feet, and all the space above the same is in a single attic for storage purposes or for sleeping cots when needed. The attic is lighted by ten small windows set in the frieze between the veranda and eave cornice. The roof is hipped and set at angles of forty-five degrees and surmounted by a rustic cresting. Between the attic windows in the frieze are placed panels, each bearing a large star. The veranda extending entirely around the building is seven feet, and three inches wide and is carried on brackets. A platform slightly inclined for water shed and six feet six inches in width extends around the building under the veranda. The exterior finish is of matched sheathing battened, divided into paneled spaces by architraves and platbands and painted in contrasting colors. The shingled roof is also broken by colored bands. The timber framing being exposed in the interior is smoothly planed as is the inner surface of all sheathing, no plaster work nor painting being required for the inside. The plans are finished but the preparation of specifications will be deferred for the present or until the other buildings now in course of construction on the same field are farther advanced.

'Tis sad to see a woman growing old before her time,
All broken down and hopeless when life should hold its prime;
She feels herself a burden when a blessing she should be,
And longs for death to bring her release from misery.

If these poor, discouraged women who suffer from diseases peculiar to women, could only know that health could be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, how eagerly they would hasten to avail themselves of it. They ought to know it, and try it. Every woman who is still healthy ought to be told about the wonderful virtue in this medicine, and understand that it is a safeguard against the terrible diseases common to her sex. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money paid for it will be refunded.

Psoriasis 8 years. Head, arms, and breast a solid scab. Back covered with sores. Best doctors and medicines fail. Cured by Cuticura remedies at a cost of $3.75.

I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES with the best results. I used two bottles of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, three boxes of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, and am cured of a terrible skin and scalp disease known as psoriasis. I had it for eight years. It would get better and worse at times. Sometimes my head would be a solid scab, and was at the time I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My arms were covered with scabs from my elbows to shoulders, my breast was almost one solid scab, and my back covered with sores varying in size from a penny to a dollar. I had doctored with all the best doctors with no relief, and used many different medicines without effect. My case was hereditary, and I began to think, incurable, but it began to heal from the first application of CUTICURA.

Undoubtedly the Most Wonderful Deposit of Ore in Alabama.

READ THE OPINIONS OF THE FOLLOWING GENTLEMEN:

Mr. Fackenthol, expert for the Cooper Hewett Iron Co., of New York, says: "Of all ore deposits I ever saw, this is the greatest."

Prof. F. C. ROBINSON, of Bowdoin College, after a recent visit to Bluffton, and having made an analysis of the ores says: "I have no hesitation in saying that Bluffton contains a practically unlimited supply of ore, suitable for making good iron, and is exceedingly favorably located for mining." The Gilon Furnace of Chattanooga, one of the best coke iron furnaces in the South, uses some fifty tons daily of this ore, and their testimony is that it is of the best quality, and their orders are constantly calling for larger quantities.

Bluffton is situated in the Northeastern part of Alabama, on the main lines of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. For the purpose of building a Coke Iron Furnace and further development of the property, 8,000 shares of the stock are offered for sale. Price for the present, $14.00 per share.
